

Refrigeration Equipment

Recycling

Refrigeration Equipment

Variation of a refrigeration equipment re-processing system:

The refrigeration equipment is broken down into its individual component parts by means of various fragmentation steps, which can be separated from one another depending on the customer's requirement with regard to recovery and purity using appropriate separation phases. TST offers customer-specific concepts which range from extending existing reprocessing systems to a complete new system. References on demand.

